LIFESTYLE ROOM GUIDE

For many homeowners, one of the dreams of creating a custom-built home is the ability to craft a lifestyle room suited to your specific needs and desires. When you choose Ridgeline Construction Group, that dream becomes a reality, and the end result will be a room where you can indulge your hobbies, entertain your friends, and delight your family. The planning phase is crucial when developing a custom lifestyle room because there are certain aspects that have to be factored into the design and build of the home.

HOME THEATERS

Whether you love to invite your friends over to watch the big game, or you want to experience movies as the filmmakers intended them, there's nothing quite like inserting a custom home theater into your new residence. Sightlines are crucial when designing a home theater, so it's much more complicated than simply allowing wall space for a large screen and deciding what kinds of recliners to install. Your design professionals will help you achieve optimal sight lines, sound systems, and ambient lighting so that every seat in your theater is the best seat in the house. Custom sound insulation is also needed for home theaters. This will optimize the acoustics of the room by evening out the amount of bass and frequency, so each seat is the best seat in the house. As your custom home builder, we know what technology to incorporate for optimal sound insulation.

GAME ROOMS

From billiards to poker, game rooms are the envy of many neighbors and friends. You'll need to have enough space not only for any tables required but also room for people to comfortably move around tables and use accessories like pool cues without causing damage. If you want to take your game room to the next level, talk with your builder about incorporating a unique floor design or material. Fun carpet tile designs, foam mats, or cork make for great design features.

HOBBY ROOMS

Rooms designed to accommodate large hobbies such as collecting, artistic creation, and more can make your custom home feel like an extension of your personality. However, they also need to be outfitted with proper storage space -- planned during the project's design -- so you can get the most out of them. Think carefully about your future needs early so your builder can create the most functional hobby room that will grow with you for years to come.

WINE CELLARS

Serious wine collectors are often left wanting when looking at existing homes, but when you choose a custom home you can build a wine cellar that will house your growing collections in ideal conditions. Accurate environmental controls are a must for wine cellars, so be sure to leave the creation of this space to the experts.
